

BPL would be a very great mistake for the FCC to make, and would eventually reflect badly upon the decision making ability of that governmental organization. There is already far too much radiation from loose connections, bad insulators etc. on our Nation's power lines. To add rf makes me shudder.